

Welcome back... sort of!

It feels a little strange to say welcome back to 2026 and Term 1 when we're already in Week 3. And yet, if we're honest, it still feels like Week 1. Between athletics trials, swimming selections, and the many moving parts that come with the start of a school year, getting properly stuck into teaching can feel oddly unfamiliar. The routines are there, the learners are present, but the rhythm is still settling.

At Coach in the Class, we have some exciting plans unfolding this year. One highlight will be a creative, practical conference at the beginning of Term 3. Right now, it's living in that wonderful conceptual space where ideas are growing, topics are being shaped and engaging presenters are being lined up. Key themes will include creativity in lessons, collaboration with learners and practical ways to make teachers' jobs easier (yes, AI will absolutely be part of the conversation!).

We'd love you to visit our website to explore the engaging units available for this term. As always, we aim to keep our pricing accessible because meaningful, 21st-century, skills-based learning should be within reach for every classroom. We're genuinely excited to support you in new and evolving ways this year.

Watch this space. We're glad you're here.

Warmly,

Coach in the Class

PS: Creativity grows when we give ourselves permission to try.
